

Contents

Introduction	1
ONE
Why service? Fostering the firm's most valuable asset	6
Introduction	6
The 'relationship concept'	6
The traits of 'excellence'	12
Marketing – a useful definition	13
Customers: The key questions	15
Exercise	25
TWO
What is a service?	30
Introduction	30
The characteristics that differentiate a service	30
The extended service mix	39
Exercise	42
THREE
The why and where of service	46
Introduction	46
The service spectrum: Classifying a service	46
The proportion of 'service' in the 'product'	47
Exercise	56
FOUR
Competing in time (CIT)	58
Introduction	58
Time – the only objective measure	58
The five flavours of time	59
Technology: Pull versus push	66
Exercise	70

FIVE

The service product and its positioning 72

Introduction	72
Positioning the service product	73
Introducing the 'Levitt Construct Tool'	73
Exercise	79
The model applied elsewhere	83
The fundamentals of positioning a service product	86
Coping with emulation	91
Feedback – taxi exercise	95

SIX

Service is a people business 100

Introduction	100
A people based business	100
The service triangle	106
Exercise	110

SEVEN

Making the service tangible 112

Introduction	112
How to 'tangibilise' a service	113
The dimensions of physical evidence	121
Exercise	137

EIGHT

Process (delivering the service) 140

Introduction	140
Focus on the experience	141
Focus on the performance	144
The Lovelock Matrices	145
Exercise	162

NINE

Managing service resources 166

Introduction	166
Resource dilemma – capacity constraint	166
The conflicting issues	170
Exercise	178

TEN

Segmenting a service market 182

Introduction	182
Segmentation: Why do it?	183
General approach – the method	190
Exercise	197

ELEVEN

Promoting a service 200

Introduction	200
Editorial publicity	201
Generating editorial publicity	204
The HCA calendar	208
Communication channels for editorial publicity	210
Networking and making connections	215
Exercise	220

TWELVE

Pricing a service 224

Introduction	224
Executive multiplier considerations	224
Price as an indicator of service quality	226
Basic pricing strategies	227
Specific strategies for service pricing	230
Cost structure considerations for pricing services	232
Implications of the overhead to variable cost ratio (OH/VC)	235
Implications of OH/VC ratios on resource capacity strategies	239
Exercise	239

THIRTEEN

Seriously seeking the feedback 242

Introduction 242

Categories of information 243

Secondary data via 'desk research' 244

Primary information via field research 246

Market/customer information systems 248

Exercise 254

INDEX 255